Introduction

Here we are, 1 year has passed with my nose buried deep into Zebra 2 VST. What i have learned is its, to me, true nature which is somewhat hidden because most people tend to think subtractive only. In my opinion the immense power lies within the OSC FX. This is what makes Zebra different from other synths. Now combine that with its wavetable and additive shaping and we got a MONSTER in our hands. There is no way to tell how an OSC FX affects a waveform without trial and error and this is where the real exploration of Zebra begins.

So give yourself time to take the dive into Zebra, be patient. Zebra can be one of your most important tools in the studio but don't expect to understand it overnight. You have to grow in understanding with Zebra. The more you understand, the more is revealed to you and the more you can control.

Installation

Unpack the ZIP file which holds all relevant files for the soundset. Copy the Zebra Oldskool directory with all its content to your Zebra preset folder:

Somewhere on my comp.. \u-he\Zebra2.data\Presets\Zebra2

*If you are unsure where that somewhere is then try do a search for .H2P files on your comp, then something Zebra like is bound to show up.

Some tips

1. Always assume that the initial key for a patch is C3 unless noted in patch name.
2. Patches named with a + have additional XY controls on the performance page.
3. Patches without a + might have some NOTES on the performance page.
4. Pay attention to Velocity, Mod Wheel and Aftertouch on ALL patches.
5. Learn to get the most from your patches using the EQ on the Global FX page.
6. 44 patches, each representing a category is placed in the root of Zebra Oldskool.
7. Protect your ears, browse patches at low volume until you are familiar with them.

The Zebra Oldskool Soundset started out as an experiment from my side in spring 2007. In July 2007 the first volume was released, later in September 2007 we added the free second volume. Its May 2008 now and we are at volume three which will also be the last in this series.

Thanks to Urs at <http://www.u-he.com> and to all who supported the creation of this soundset.

License agreement and terms of use:

1.

To use patches from the Zebra Oldskool Soundset in your work you must purchase a license and agree to the following terms before use:

2.

Under no circumstances may any of the content from the Zebra Oldskool Soundset be sampled, copied or resynthesized for use in any kind of commercial or free product.

Example:

2.a) The included patches are for use in a musical composition and not as a starting ground for building a commercial library of synth samples.

3.

However, sampling is ok for as long as its part of a musical composition by the license holder.

Example:

3.a) Sampling drum sounds from Zebra Oldskool Soundset for use in a musical composition is ok as a license holder.

3.b) Sampling drum sounds from Zebra Oldskool Soundset for use in a commercial or free sound library is not ok.

3.c) Sampling a patch for creative sound mangling is ok as long as its used in a musical composition by the license holder.

4. The license is bound to the email and person who purchases the product.

5. The license and the Zebra Oldskool Soundset may not be given away or resold.
